Our Vision is to be a place where connections are made and opportunities are realised.

Our Mission is to consistently meet the needs of the community by providing quality community development activities, programs and services.

Champions for our local Community Enterprise Zone

Emerald Community House starts 2018 with an application for Deductible Gift Recipient status as a charity not for profit. Why is this important? ECH is already an incorporated charity not for profit organisation but gaining the DGR status will enable the organisation to apply for philanthropic grants from businesses and organisations like the Myer Foundation, Commonwealth Bank and other benevolent foundations. The reality is that ECH has been providing the community with programs that benefit the community, people in need or in transition to other pathways in life from the very beginning of the centre in 1977. Reaffirming our Statement of Purpose is a key commitment to describe a large part of the work ECH is engaged in besides the activities that attract the broader community.

ECH welcomes all demographics and the representation in our membership, small businesses, community groups and partners reflects a community with diverse needs as well as resources. Our service agreement with DHHS encourages ECH to deliver beneficial programs that support our community according to our assessments, community feedback and strategic objectives.

Operating as a Centre of Resilience in our own Community Enterprise Zone, ECH pushes the boundaries of conventional neighbourhood house operating theory to an empowered, responsive and viable incorporated association with flexible resources at its fingertips ready to respond and adapt to ever changing community needs. Watch for our new introductory courses targeting the industries of interest in our area and our continuing progress with solar community enterprises in 2018.

The role of ECH is flexible in local responses to needs, issues and opportunities. We have the ability to access local resources and relationships and increase the level of local volunteering and donations which benefit the whole of our community including Cardinia Shire as well as Yarra Ranges, Casey and Knox city councils. By strengthening our own region we invest in the betterment of Melbourne's resilience as a member of the greater metropolitan region.

Palliative Care Program

Monthly Group Meeting Sessions - All Welcome

Dates: Wednesday January 31st, February 28th, March 28th

Time & Venue: 7pm - 9pm, Emerald Community House Hall

End of life care has many dimensions not restricted to the person facing their own mortality, but also family members and carers and their extended family and friends.

A terminal diagnosis due to an incurable disease which might be short or long, brings with it many questions including “where do I want to die and how will my care be managed”.

Then there is the person diagnosed with a neurological degenerative disease such as dementia, that might be slow to progress and often requiring full time nursing care, until death. Once again many questions are raised with family members and carers about how will care be managed and can it be within the familiar home setting.

HELP is a practical guide for communities to support local people who wish to receive end-of-life care in their home, or community setting.

The goal of HELP is to create a sustainable collaborative local culture that attends to end-of-life needs for local residents.

Emerald Community House

Healthy End of Life Program (HELP)

Offering, asking for and accepting help

Creating an End of Life Collaborative Community Culture in Emerald

Emerald Community House aims to build end of life community capacity and resilience in two ways:

By generating, in partnership with other community forums, public conversation, community discussion and skill sharing on the role of community at end of life.

By creating a community network of people with capacity to support other community members who wish to receive end of life care at home.

HELP invites community members to offer of themselves to be called upon to offer practical support for the person, enabling as best as possible, continuation of life with elements that previously gave purpose and meaning to the person's life. There are no limits to practical support, be it mowing the lawns, changing a light globe or providing company.

The 'other side of the coin' is care and support for the person's carer, often their partner, who is present 'around the clock' and who might appreciate an occasional break from what is often an enormously stressful and tiring situation.

The first Healthy End of Life Program (HELP); offering, asking for and accepting help was held and organised by the Emerald Community House in February 2017.

The gathering was attended by eight (8) local community members together with representatives from La Trobe University Palliative Care Unit and Eastern Metropolitan Region Palliative Care Consortium.

Subsequent and expanded gatherings have convened each month and envisaged ongoing meetings continue throughout the year, as there is real interest and enthusiasm for community members 'stepping up' to enable those wishing to die at home, to realise their last wishes.

Tutor Experience - Heather Ellis (Book Writers' Workshop)

“As tutor of the Writers' Workshop at Emerald Community House, I have had the honour of witnessing students realise their potential as writers and gain confidence in their writing abilities. This opportunity has also been an extremely inspiring experience for myself as a writer. The writing class focused on the craft of memoir with the aim of students writing their first draft in the year-long workshop. Each lesson focused on an aspect of memoir writing but the skills were also just as applicable to writing fiction. It was inspiring to help students identify the structure and themes of their writing project, and then as a group, provide feedback to further improve the development of their story.”

Advocacy

The La Trobe Chapter of the 'Grandmothers against Detention of Refugee Children' (GADRC) is a proud sub committee of the Emerald Community House.

Please contact the House to find out when their next meeting or activity is. emhouse@iinet.net.au or 5968 3881.

All welcome, even if you aren't a grandmother!

'Food is Free'

This project is part of a worldwide movement that promotes food to be freely available to everyone. Emerald Community House has now set up a Food is Free pantry cupboard to offer food freely to the whole community.

Everyone is welcome to take food from the pantry and anyone can contribute food to the pantry. We only ask that you try to keep your donated foods reasonably healthy and within their use by dates, and that any fresh food donated can be stored in a sealed container to keep the possums out. Please feel free to leave a comment or suggestion in the book. This will help us to better provide for the needs of our community.

We hope that we can keep this food pantry well stocked through the generosity of our wonderful community. Please remember this pantry is for everyone's use. Food sustains us, food connects us. Food is life!

The Centre of Resilience (COR) is a community development model piloted at Emerald Community House committing to resilience building ideas and initiatives that stimulate community strength and social durability. This includes activities that invest in job skills for a stronger economy, sustainability action, social justice, resourcefulness and community asset protection.

The goal of COR is to contribute to "community continuity" by encouraging the efficient and effective use of existing social, natural, economic and built community based assets in a sustainable way.

A community continuity strategy, contributes directly to:

- Sustainable economic, environmental and social benefits
- Enhancement of community governance and leadership skills through proactive processes
- An increase in community participation in education, volunteering, living and employment skills
- Safer and happier communities

Core Humanitarian Standards

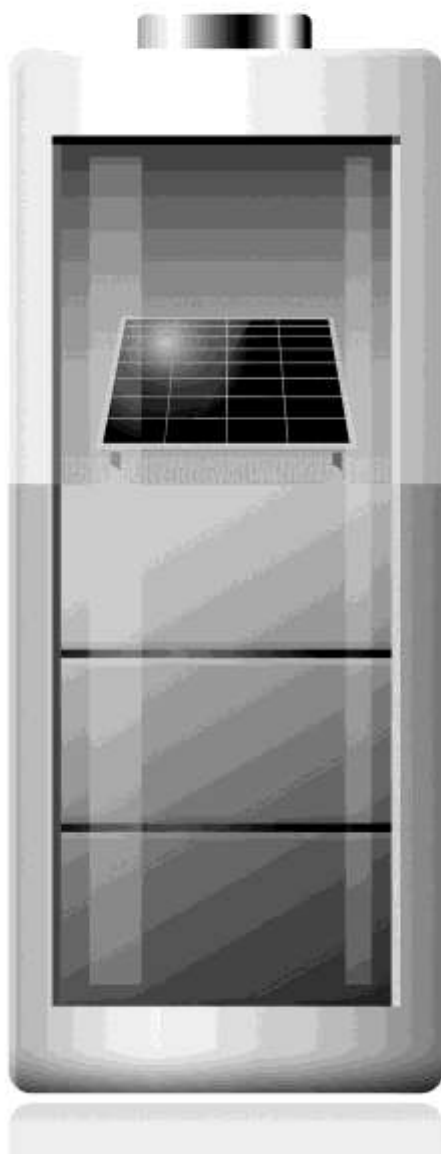

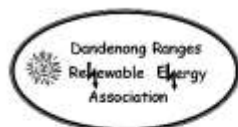

ECH invites other community groups engaged in community development activities to adopt appropriate standards such as the Core Humanitarian Standards (CHS) which are recognized throughout the international humanitarian sector. These standards should now be embraced by governments, councils and community groups who are involved in supporting people in crisis or in high risk disaster areas.
